Project plan review

Great work. The scope of the work seems achievable, and the high-level structure of the software is well planned. In addition, you have clearly researched what external libraries would suit your project. According to my research, OpenStreetMap seems like the best option for an importable map, but if you have found different options that will probably be fine as well. However, if using some importable map proves to be too challenging, you can always create your own map. The planned division of work and schedule seem reasonable. Good job all around! 5/5
